SIGHTS · CORINTHIA

Stream of the Mills

About

What beauty and tranquillity. The sounds of rustling leaves, singing birds, and babbling water. Overhead, the trees form green canopies, while your feet tread on an autumn "carpet" of orange-red leaves. Along the banks, plane trees, walnut trees, apple trees, cherry trees, plum trees, chestnut trees, pear trees, and persimmon trees lean gracefully. Wild aromatic herbs grow everywhere. The water, running and cascading from rock to rock, creates small waterfalls, and as it finds expanses in its path, it forms small lakes filled with trout, shimmering in the crystal-clear waters. The sky and clouds give colour to the waters, while the wind creates its "music" depending on the day and the season. Ducks eagerly await to snatch the bread you throw them before retreating back to their wooden houses. If you have children, they will be delighted.
