Mylokopi Beach

About

Mylokopi lies on the northern side of the Perachora peninsula, facing the Corinthian Gulf. It is one of those shores that give you the feel of open sea, in contrast to the enclosed water of Vouliagmeni.

What to expect

A pebble beach with clear, deep water and views to the mountains opposite. Because it is exposed to the northerly wind, the sea can be choppy when it blows — check the forecast before you set out.

Practical notes

- Reached across the Perachora peninsula from Loutraki.
- Limited facilities — bring water and shade.
- Combine it with Schinos, Lake Vouliagmeni and the Heraion.

Useful information

Best time to visit	April–June & September–October (mild, uncrowded)
