Kastania

About

Kastania is one of the highest villages in Corinthia, in the mountain zone near Stymphalia and the Arcadian border. Its name comes from the chestnut trees that thrive here.

Its character

Stone houses, plane trees, running water and air that stays cool even in August. It is a classic Peloponnesian mountain village, coming strongly to life at its festivals.

What is around

Lake Stymphalia with its archaeological site and Zaraka Monastery, Mount Oligyrtos, and the walking routes of the area.

Practical notes

- A mountain drive from Kiato or Stymphalia.
- Winters are very cold — dress accordingly.
- An ideal summer escape from the heat.
