SIGHTS · CORINTHIA

Mount Dourdouvana

About

Dourdouvana rises at the western mountain edge of Corinthia, above the Feneos valley. It is one of the peaks that, together with Ziria, define the landscape of the area.

The landscape

Fir forest on the lower slopes, bare hillsides and rocky ridges higher up. From the heights the view opens over the valley, Lake Doxa and the mountains of Achaea.

What to do

- Hiking on forest tracks and paths.
- Combining it with Lake Doxa and Ancient Feneos.
- Nature watching — this is among the wildest country in the region.

Practical notes

- Reached from the Feneos valley.
- Routes are unmarked — a map and GPS are essential.
- Snow lies in winter; experience required.

Useful information
