Agia Sotira Beach

About

Agia Sotira lies on the northern coast of the Perachora peninsula, near Schinos. It is one of those beaches that stay quiet because reaching them takes a little effort.

What to expect

A pebble shore with clear water and views over the Corinthian Gulf towards the Alkyonides Islands. Facilities are minimal and the landscape almost entirely undeveloped.

It suits anyone who wants a swim without crowds and does not mind carrying in what they need.

Practical notes

- Reached via Schinos from Loutraki.
- Unorganised — water, food and shade are essential.
- Best in calm weather, as the shore is exposed to the northerly wind.

Useful information

Best time to visit	April–June & September–October (mild, uncrowded)
