Pisia

About

Pisia lies 10.2 km north-east of Corinth, roughly 5.3 km from Loutraki.

What to expect

A mountain village at about 650 metres on the pine-clad north-eastern slope of the Gerania range, some 4 km from Perachora. A deep ravine with plane trees and running water crosses the area. The main church is Agia Paraskevi, a three-aisled basilica first built in the 18th century; the few permanent residents work in farming and livestock.

Closest points

- Omalia — 1.2 km
- Koukounari — 1.3 km
- Pintiza — 1.8 km
- Petra Perachoras — 2.4 km

Practical notes

- Pine forest: fire risk is high in summer — no open fires.
- The road climbs in bends from Perachora.
- Perachora and Loutraki are the nearest places for food and services.
